NBC 10 reported that Lambert was walking past a basketball court when he questioned why the teens were out so late. After he questioned them, they attacked him with the traffic cone and food and repeatedly punched him.

"It's a very sad situation for all of the children, for the man's family and for everybody involved," the brothers' attorney Rania Major, said Monday, according to NBC 10. "These are children, let's let them have their peace."
