

Domestic Violence Resources & Ways to Stay Engaged

TAKE ACTION

Host educational workshops to better understand the signs of domestic violence and how to support survivors.

Promote a safe environment where survivors feel supported and understood. Map out local resources and services.

Volunteer with local domestic violence shelters and organizations.

Plan regular events, forums, town halls, and seminars to keep the conversation going and educate the community.

Engage the faith community and community organizations to address domestic violence.

Use social media platforms, community bulletins, and word of mouth to raise awareness about domestic violence and available resources.

Promote programs that involve men in eradicating domestic violence.

To host a workshop or learn more about how you can engage in these and other effort to recognize and prevent domestic violence, please email Lisa Streeter at lisa.streeter@plcntu.org.
